ORDINANCE PROVIDES ADVERTISING FOR BIDS ON EAST END STREET CONSTRUCTION TO START TODAY

Measure to Build Street to Junction Passes First Reading—Council Acts on Number Important Questions Last Night

CONTROVERSY ON SEVERAL SECTIONS STREET BUILDING

Ordinance for the construction and improvement of East Cumberland avenue and Fitzpatrick avenue passed the second reading at the city council meeting last night and advertising for bids is carried today. Sealed bids will be accepte up to noon of August 7.

T. G. Anderson, county attorney stated that the State Highway Commission would have a meeting on August 13 and that the East End proposition should be in condition for their approval by that time.

Ordinance for the improvement and construction of Exeter avenue from Twenty-third to Thirty eighth street, from Thirty-eighth to Winchester, from thence to the L. and N. railway and Lynnwood road from Twenty fifth street extended passed the first reading. The same ordinance provided for the repair and reconstruction of Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets from Cumberland to Lothbury avenue. The including intersections work will be done at the exclusive cost of abutting property owners. It may be done of reinforced concrete, water-bound macadam or Kentucky rock asphalt.

J. A. Stanley requested that sewers be made on Exeter avenue before the street is improved. Mayor J. H. Keeney stated that he was aware of the fact that Middlesboro is badly in need of sewers and that they would be made in the Exeter avenue section before the construction work begins.

A request was made by the Hubbard Construction company to obtain slag from the LaFollette furnace because a shortage is foreseen in the local furnace pits. The matter was deferred.

Maddox's Claim Denied

A request for compensation for services as city prosecuting attorney from 1919 to 1921 was made in writing by R. L. Maddox. The bill with interest, amounts to about $3,000. The question was discussed at length by the councilmen. It was said that, as the court of appeals had denied the request and that as the council was not entirely acquainted with the circumstances, it should be denied. A roll-call vote was taken which resulted in a denial of the request.

Councilman Fleener Sharp stated that, being a property owner who was paying his part of the construction work, he was entitled to some of the old slag for use at the rear of the City Barber shop building. A discussion arose in which partiality in distributing the refuse materials was charged. The mayor said that the matter of its disposal is left entirely to J. C. Richardson, city engineer, and told Mr. Sharp to confer with him.

A request was made by the Kentucky Utilities company for permission to build a side-track to its new ice plant across Nineteenth street. It was said by council members that a switch "frog" in the street there would not be desirable. The matter was finally referred to the street committee.

Repair Library Room

The library committee made a request in writing that the city repair the room at the library which was used by the pulic school during the last term. The board of education has no power to act on matters of this kind during the summer months, it was said. Motion that the work, supervised by the proper committee, be done was passed.

S. E. Daniel submitting a bid for the reroating of the city hall roof. It was decided to advertise for bids for this work in order to get it done as economically as possible.

The Brosheer-Brummett hospital company asked permission to erect a two-story brick and concrete building adjacent to their present building. The permit was granted as was also the request of H. A. Williams to build a five room residence on Exeter avenue between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets.

A request for a street lamp on Lynnwood road was granted. The matter of erecting a concrete post at the intersection of Amesbury avenue and Nineteenth street on account of automobile accidents at that place was referred to the street committee.

After some discussion it was decided that a fire-plug be placed on the south side of Cumberland avenue near Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets. A request for this fire protection was made by residents and business firms of that block.

Amendment Passes

An amendment to an ordinance providing that streets running parallel with Cumberland avenue with the exception of Exeter avenue be constructed on a forty foot driveway passed the second reading. Ashbury avenue from Nineteenth street to Fitzpatrick avenue, thence to the Wilderness road and Gloucester avenue from Twenty-fourth to Twenty-seventh street are now included in the exception. The ordinance provides that curbing and guttering may be reconstructed in accordance with the width of the street.

Residents of the Eighteen and Fitzpatrick avenue block on Cumberland avenue petitioned the city not to remove any of the present street materials in reconstructing the block with concrete. They asked that the present surface be scarified and rerolled and that the concrete be made over it. The block is too low now, they stated and the sidewalks should be built up to the new street rather than the new street be built down to the old sidewalk level.

A paragraph of the petition outlined the stand of the L. and N. in regard to the overhead bridge. It was stated that the company is not willing to make changes to conform to the new street grades, this being inconsistent at present.

ARREST 46 FOR SPEEDING SUNDAY

Officers Patrol Pineville-Middlesboro Road Sunday to Curb Reckless Driving

Forty six persons were arrested for speeding on the Middlesboro-Pineville road Sunday by county officers, according to reports. Squire Creech of Pineville was with the officers and received the fines of those who wished to pay.

Some of the speeders did not stop but their numbers were taken and they were rounded up yesterday. The police arrested one man yesterday morning who escaped Sunday. Officers say that some of the motorists were traveling so swiftly that it was with difficulty that the numbers were taken.

The public is highly gratified with the work of the officers. Cases of reckless driving on this road have been reported frequently and it is thought that the vigilance of the officers along the road, particularly on Sundays, will do much toward stopping the dangerous practice.

It is reported that one of the speeders failed to stop when hailed by the officers and that the latter fired on the car and, puncturing the tires, forced the motorist to stop. It was later reported that the punctures were not caused by bullets.

VARIED USES FOR NEW TRUTH SERUM

Many and varied are the possible uses of "scopolamin," the new drug which benumbs the prevaricating conscious mind and places the subject entirely at the mercy of the candid subconscious self.

Large quantities of it could be used to good advantage at Pineville court this week. The uncanny drug would force from witnesses and defendants facts which the shrewd counsel could never elicit by gruelling cross-examination.

The serum would be a panacea for all ills connected with the sale of spurious stock. Promoters of vague and imaginary enterprises, stripped of their guile by the medicine, would confess that their stock certificates were merely so much paper. Middlesboro people would make a great annual saving by the proper use of the drug in this manner.

Lovers would find the drug of inestimable value during courtship. The artful young Romeo, charged with scopolamin, would doubtless offer a proposal in this manner: "You are not a bit good looking and your intelligence and accomplishments are very ordinary but you can cook and keep house so I guess I might as well marry you and have it over with."

The girl of his practical dreams, if the lie-proof medicine were effective, might answer: "I'll take you, though I would much rather have Harry. You are an awful bore but you have a good job and I'm getting to be an old maid."

Some local citizens, stabbed with the needle of truth and questioned might say: "Yes, they've got my ten dollars and I even had to furnish my own sheet and pillow case."

There is little doubt that local druggists will do a big business if scopolamin proves an entire success and its use is permitted.

THE GRADE CROSSING MUST GO

The Missouri Highway Commission is giving its attention to the question of grade crossings and to ways of reducing the number of accidents at such crossings. Not long ago Charles H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central Railroad in a published statement, said that the way to reduce grade crossing accidents is through cooperation of the public with the railroads in bringing pressure to bear on drivers of motor vehicles to stop, look and listen.

The idea sounds plausible, and if it could be carried out would mean a saving of money on the part of the railroads as well as the public. But there is ample evidence that it wouldn't work. In recent years safety has been preached from the housetops, statutes have been enacted seeking to enforce caution at grade crossings, all manner of warning signs have been displayed, guards have been placed on duty at points of danger. Yet the crossing accidents have continued and even increased.

The United States Railroad Administration a few years ago made an analysis of a large number of grade crossing accidents, and found that many of them had occurred where the danger spot was plainly visible to the approaching motorist, and that all of them were at "crossings protected either by warning signs, audible and visual signals, crossing gate or flagmen."

In view of all this, the Missouri commission seems to be on the right path, almost everlasting? Why not the road because she is dependent track. The crossings must be made safe by building for greater permanency in our over bad health. 'suicide proof," or perhaps the term beautiful town. Both streets and 'fool proof," would be justified. The hoped. There is so little difference can only be done by so routing the in the original cost. We are "penny roads as to avoid a crossing, or, where wise, pound foolish" people. We no this is impossible by placing the rail sooner favor bond issues for financing road track and the motor road on different levels, which is the purpose of the commission. Cooperating with railroad companies and with local authorities, the commission will ask in this week to eliminate the grade crossings wherever the traffic is heavy. This is impossible by placing the rail sooner favor bond issues for financing payments on public improvements, till the streets are ripped up and re-built.

Why have Middlesboro no street repair squad, whose business shall be to patch holes in the highways as soon as they appear? Why let expensive streets go to pieces, and no efforts made to prevent their doing so? Shades, we are a careless, extravagant people!

Keep Streets Repaired

Editor Daily News: The attention of citizens, especially those who are to have asphalt streets built in front of their property, is called to the many breaks in the two-year old asphalt work on Edgewood Hill, where the asphalt and cement join at the gutter line. From the curve by the Boomway inn, down, there are at least 15 breaks. See to it, fellow citizens, that work now being done will be for greater permanency. What excuse can be framed for expensive streets deteriorating so fast? Why do not property holders, in the future, insist upon having cement streets; or better still brick streets, which are, with very few re-

REPORT SHOWS CRIME INCREASE IN CINCINNATI

By Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, July 23.—Reports prepared by deputy county clerks for the Secretary of State show a large increase in commission of crime in Hamilton county during the year ending July 1, over the previous year. Indictments by grand juries numbered 509 as against 375 in the previous year. Persons involved were 591 against 475 in 1922.

The report shows the following record in the two years:

Second degree murder	29	10
Manslaughter	4	4
Assault to kill	19	8

Auto stealing	40	23
Bigamy	4	2

The decrease in liquor cases is due, the clerks say, to the activity of the village courts.

LETTER FROM SYDNEY CARTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

Perhaps I'd better confess on the first page that I am a bit afraid to be afraid of women and most of all afraid of you.

You are such a fool, Jack. You never know when you are well off and all you need is a good shaking. Some day this kind of a girl will go all lovey, dovey and stop to think that there is about one in every eight marriages. Don't end on your possibilities of being unlucky number eight.

Of course I cannot understand how Leslie feels about you but knowing you as I do, I know I wouldn't live with you a minute. Will you tell me why you want to break up the friendship between Ruth Ellington and Leslie?

I happen to have known Ruth very well before she was married and, as you say, she was the gayest and by odds the best girl. I know that something very terrible must have happened in the first year of her marriage for she has never been the same since.

I never did like Harry Ellington. He is the most selfish, egotistical arrogant man I have ever met and that's the case.

What little I have seen of Ruth since her marriage has made me think she has a brave little thing who doesn't tell her troubles to every one, but I would like to tell Harry Ellington one thing. I don't know Ruth well enough to prophesy that there are plenty of men who would be very glad to make love to her. There is always another man in the offing for a pretty neglected wife.

It always seemed so strange to me that young husband seem to feel their wives are immune. You know as well as I, Jack, that you feel perfectly free to compliment and flirt with the wives of any young men of your acquaintance if they will let you, also that down deep in your heart you think you have the prettiest girl in town as your wife.

Then why should not all the other fellows try to make love to her if you neglect her? I have seen that so many times and I am satisfied that in the case of Ruth Ellington, if she ever falls in love with another man, she will very quickly tell Mr. Harry where he gets off. She isn't a woman to be blindly in love or blindly deceived.

Perhaps you have noticed this and that is the reason you wanted to keep Leslie away from her. Don't kid yourself, Jack. Leslie also has a mind of her own and she will exercise it in the selection of her friends, both men and women.

Because I know that I would take Leslie's part against you, for I know her well enough to know she is neither prejudiced, nor jealous. I don't want to come over and get into any controversy. I know you would be just fool enough to commence one.

You put me in wrong with her with that letter. I grow hot all over whenever I think of it. She will always think there is something between you and me that she should not know. Of course there is a lot that she should not know about you if she wants to be happy and that's what makes me afraid of her, for I tell you, my friend, that if Leslie asks me anything about you, I'll tell her the truth.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem
TAKE A LOOK
By Berton Braley

We read in myths and fairy tales of how the mountains and the vales.
The woods and lakes and dewy dales.
Were much frequented
By hamadryads slim and fair,
And nymphs of pagan beauty rare.
Who were encountered everywhere
In forests scented.

And there is much mythology
Regarding ladies of the sea
Who, in manner bold and free,
Vamped many sailors:
Their garments were exceeding sheer
(According to the yarns we hear).
They didn't give much work, I fear,
To ladies' tailors.

Where are those nymphs and dryads, too,
Who roamed the forest pathways through?
Where are the sirens of the blue,
Blue ocean reaches?
"Where are they now?" the poet cries.
It is a cinch to put him wise.
He merely needs to use his eyes
Upon the beaches!

JERUSALEM SHRINES OCCUPIED BY AMERICAN RELIEF UNITS

By Associated Press

Jerusalem, July 21.—The three most important "holy places" of the Armenian Catholic Church are now occupied by American relief units, according to the annual report of the Armenian Patriarch here. They are: The St. James Monastery on Mt. Zion, the official residence of the Armenian Patriarch, and the Convent of the Holy Cross.

St. James monastery, built in the twelfth century, was formerly used for housing the thousands of Armenian pilgrims who came annually to Jerusalem. The extensive grounds of the monastery are now occupied by an American agricultural school for orphans, and the residence of the patriarch is a hospital supported by the American Near East Relief.

The Convent of the Holy Cross, standing on the traditional site of the tree from which the cross was made, is an American hotel for girls. The building is more than a thousand years old.

THE POPLAR FIELD

The poplars are fell'd, farewell to the shade
And the whispering sound of the cool colonnade,
The winds play no longer and sing in the leaves,
Nor Ouse on his bosom their image receives

Twelve years have lapsed since I first took a view
Of my favorite field, and the bank where they grew;
And now in the grass behold they are laid,
And the tree is my seat that once lent me a shade,

The blackbird has fled to another retreat
Where the hazels afford him a screen from the heat;
And the scene where his melody charmed me before
Resounds with his sweet flowing ditty no more.

My fugitive years are all hasting away,
And I must ere long lie as lowly as they,
With a turf on my breast and a stone at my head,
Ere another such grave shall rise in its stead.

'Tis a sight to engage me, if anything can,
To muse on the perishing pleasures of man;
Short-lived as we are, our enjoyments I see,
Have a still shorter date; and die sooner than we.

William Cowper.

ENTERTAINING GUESTS

If you don't keep a maid and live in a town where help is scarce and are hospitably inclined, the problem of serving hous guests a good dinner and entertaining them "out" in the afternoon sometimes seems unsolvable. This is especially true in summer when a hot roast is not so desirable for the meat course.

This menu and these recipes may help suggest a way out:

Summer Dinner Menu

Watermelon Cocktail
Creamed Potatoes Jellied Veal
New Peas
Stuffed Tomato Salad
Toasted Wafers
Maple Parfait Angel Food Cake
Coffee

It will take just one hour to set the table and get this meal on it. The peas should have been shelled and the potatoes cooked and diced. The first thing in the preparation of the meal is to put the peas on to cook. These will cook while setting the table and making the sauce for the potatoes. Old potatoes will be satisfactorily creamed if allowed to stand in cold water three or four hours before boiling. Put on to cook in cold water. When potatoes are done let cool before dicing. Dice as fine as possible.

The potatoes should be cooked and diced in the morning. The salad crisped and ready to put together and the dessert made. The coffee should percolate while dinner is being served. The salad dressing could be made the day befer the foregoing day. All other preparations are made in the morning.

Watermelon Cocktail

Make balls of watermelon with a French vegetable cutter. Allow six or eight balls to a serving. If the melon is not sweet cover balls with sugar, about one-half to a spoon of sugar for each ball is a good rule. Squeeze the juice from oranges, allowing two tablespoons of juice for each cocktail. Put the mixture into a glass jar, cover and let stand on ice until needed. Serve in cocktail glasses with a sprig of mint in each glass.

Jellied Veal

Knuckle and shank of veal, 3 pounds lean veal, 6 hard boiled eggs, 2 onions, 3 tablespoons minced parsley, 3 teaspoons salt, pepper.

Wipe meat with a damp cloth to remove any sliver of bone. The bone must be well cracked. Put in kettle with onions and cover with boiling water. Bring to the boiling point, skimming off the scum as it rises and let simmer just at boiling for three or four hours. Remove meat from bones and put through food chopper. Be careful to remove any skin or stringy fiber from the meat.

Put a layer of hard boiled eggs in a mold. Sprinkle with parsley and add a layer of meat. Season with salt and pepper. Continue adding layer for layer until all is used.

Let the stock boil while preparing the mold. Strain stock over meat in mold. Put a plate over top and press until the stock rises above the plate Lift plate and let stock recede This blends salt and pepper and thoroughly moistens meat. Do this several times.

Weigh lightly and let stand till cool. When cool put on ice to set. Unmold and cut in slices to serve. To remove from mold run a spatula under meat and put a large plate over top of mold. Turn upside down and the loaf will drop on the plate.

Stuffed Tomato Salad

Eight medium-sized tomatoes, 2 packages neufchatel cheese, 4 tablespoons finely chopped English walnuts or hickory nuts, 4 tablespoons minced celery, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon paprika.

Peel tomatoes and cut slice from stem end. Scoop out center. Put centers in a strained to drain off juice Mash cheese with a fork, add remaining ingredients and mix well. Use tomato juice to make moist. Fill tomatoes with mixture Arrange on lettuce and mask with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing.

"Where there is no vision, the people perish."—Proverbs, 24, 18.

"Your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions."—Joel, 2, 28.

The visions of Transportation which came to the young men among railroad pioneers—and made the dreams of the old men come true—have kept the people of America from perishing; since, perish all people must if the wheels of Progress be locked and the onward march of Commerce be ever halted.

What would this country be without its railroads?

What will it become with its railroads shackled by demagogic, Bolshevistic legislation to the point of impractical management and inevitable destruction?

In the corporate management of the railroads of to-day there are visions of greatness illimitable; and there is ability to transmute these visions into realities.

All the railroads need now is public appreciation and co-operation, and freedom from further restrictive Governmental regulations that serve to destroy initiative and arrest development.

The Louisville & Nashville is doing its part to make the visions of future greatness for the Southland come true. At the present time it has outstanding and under active construction facilities costing over $43,000,000 designed to enlarge and improve its transportation plant.

LUMBER MEETING HERE ENJOYED

Visitors Praise Reception in Middlesboro. Plan to Make Outing Annual Affair

The following letter in regard to the Middlesboro lumbermen's meeting has been sent out to all members of the association in the state:

The Middlesboro meeting July 12-13 attended by about 50 delegates was one of the most enjoyable gatherings ever held by the lumber dealers of Kentucky and those who failed to make the trip to this outing meeting missed something worth while.

The visitors were royally entertained at ladies night of the Kiwanis club of Middlesboro by the local lumber dealers headed by Hugh Allen of the Allen Lumber Co., F. R. Whalin of the Bell County Lumber & Coal Co., and J. W. Allison of the City Lumber & Supply Co.

Also members of the Kiwanis club furnished themselves and autos to take the visitors sightseeing. The first days trip was through Cumberland Gap and into the corners of Tennessee and Virginia. The second day there was a trip to the famous Middlesboro County Club where those who desired played golf while the others played around and had a good time.

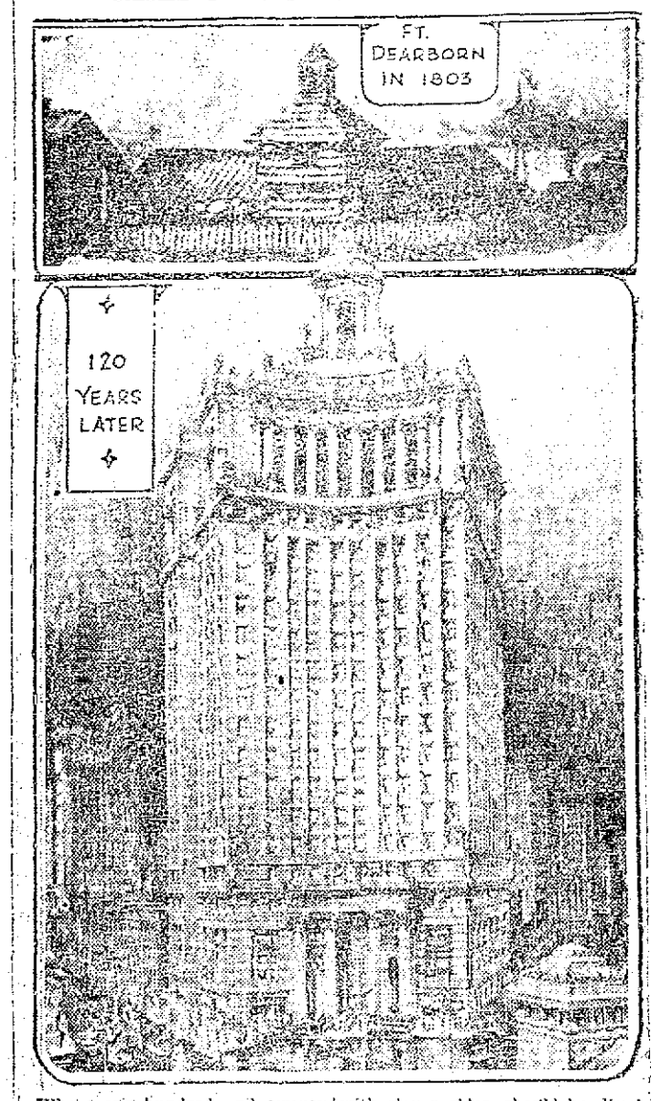
There there was a drive to Pineville where we were entertained at lunch by A. H. Card, president of the Wasioto Lumber company, following which there was a visit to Mr. Card's lumber yard at Wasioto.

The outing on the whole was so enjoyable that both the men folks and the ladies attending voted that we should have another outing meeting next summer.

Reports of business conditions indicated a healthy tone with prospects of more building activity during the later summer and fall.

J. Crow Taylor, Sec'y.

SYMBOL OF NATION'S FORWARD STRIDE RISES ON SITE OF INDIAN MASSACRE



Where one hundred and twenty years ago stood the brave little stockade known as Fort Dearborn, nucleus of the present Chicago, today a modern twenty-story office building is nearing completion. The garrison of Fort Dearborn was massacred in 1812.

This site is now the American home of the London Guarantee & Accident Company. Much public interest centered in the design as civic organizations demanded that the historic site, an irregular plat with eleven sides, should be dignified by something more than a new building. It had to be of a beauty and permanence suggesting a monument. Finally the present plans, by Alfred S. Alschuler, were accepted, and the historians were satisfied with the placing of a memorial tablet over the entrance to the building. The monument idea was further strengthened by making it solidly of Indiana Limestone, which has the peculiar quality of hardening under exposure to air.

STANDARD SIZE BRICK ADOPTED BY MAKERS

By Associated Press

CLEVELAND July 24.—Through the good office of Herbert L. Hoover and the Simplified Practice Division of the Department of Commerce, the brick industry has been enabled to sweep away an infinite variety of odd sizes of brick and establish one standard size for the seven billion bricks produced every year in the United States, according to the Common Brick Manufacturers Association headquarters.

This size is approximately 8 inches by 3 3-4 inches by 2 1-4 inches. The only exception now to be allowed is in the case of smooth faced brick for special exterior use, in which a very slight variation in one dimension only is permissible.

The common brick industry established the standard size some years ago, but experienced trouble because its standard was not insisted upon for public work by many architects.

With the government now definitely supporting the industry in its efforts to standardize its product it is expected that before long all specifications will call for the standard sized brick, to the great benefit not only of the brick industry but to all users of the product.

A RUBEROID roof is like a good insurance policy—when you get one you have the comfortable feeling that the future is well taken care of. A Ruberoid roof is an insurance against roofing troubles for years to come. Many laid in 1892—when Ruberoid was first made—are still in service and have cost practically nothing for upkeep.

Ruberoid Roll-roofing has a record of durability which cannot be paralleled in the industry. With the mineralized surface (of natural crushed slate) it is particularly attractive for use on barns, silos, sheds and similar buildings.

Ruberoid Strip-shingles are ideal for residences where there is a possibility of great variety in color treatment. Due to their unusual form, you may lay them in any one of many distinctive patterns. Furthermore, it is not necessary to use a single color in any of these patterns. You may obtain an attractive blend of colors, since the shingles are made with surfacings of natural crushed slate in sage green, Venetian red, and steel-blue.

Come in or phone us to-day for samples and descriptive folders which will give you some very important information about Ruberoid Shingles and Roofing.

NATIONAL LUMBER MEET IN SEATTLE

Semi-annual Convention August 3 and 4—Elaborate Entertainment Planned

At the invitation of the live Cincinnati Lumbermen's club, the National-American Wholesale Lumber Association will hold its spring meeting in Cincinnati, but the semi-annual meeting will be held in Seattle on August 3 and 4, and the trip to the convention will be made a notable one, combining an enjoyable time with opportunities for valuable observations of western lumbering operations.

The official notice reads:

As previously announced, during the Pittsburgh Convention the board of directors voted to hold a special meeting of the members of the association during August, at Seattle, Wash., and occurring as it does, in the midst of the vacation season, there will be an unusual opportunity for enjoying a combined business and pleasure trip at minimum expense.

The trip selected, as will be noted from the attached itinerary, includes the most beautiful scenic route on the continent, together with sops a numerous points of international renown. The principal lumber centers will be visited for meeting lumbermen, sightseeing, and entertaining.

The route selected includes a daylight ride through the scenic Canadian Rockies, stopping over at Banff and Lake Louise and a daylight boat trip from Vancouver, B. C., to Seattle. The schedule also plans for a stop-over at the Yellowstone National Park, Colorado Springs and Pike's Peak.

On the west coast visits will be made to large lumber mills, logging operations and many interesting places, including Victoria, Mt. Ranier, Columbia Highway, etc.

The Committee has planned this trip to provide about thirty days' business or pleasure, as may be desired, and in the same time will render a helpful, service to the association.

Ladies and relatives will accompany attending members.

Special cars or train will leave Chicago July 25th. It is hoped the attendance will permit the use of private cars from several cities converging into a special train at Chicago. The accommodations depend upon the number in attendance and complete plans will be announced as speedily as possible.

The larger scope of association activities and increasing membership, with the possibilities of further growth particularly in the west, make this forthcoming meeting of outstanding importance in that it will result in a closer personal touch with the workings of the organization.

It is important that the committee be advised as early as possible of the number of members and guests likely to make this trip and we will appreciate your prompt replying to the secretary.—Appalachian Trade Journal.

DEAR BILL:

I don't like to be bragging, but I'm better looking today than I've been for some time. But why shouldn't I be?

Here's the secret. I've found a perfect service at the Hotel Cumberland Barber Shop.

Sanitary? Goodnight, man! Sanitary is its middle name. There are three sterilizers for the instruments and the room fairly shines it is so clean with its tiled walls and big shining mirrors.

Service? I'll say so! Service any night until 9 o'clock. Three chairs all day long.

And that man Cobb, manager, sure is onto his job. Shows that he has learned much from his years in city shops.

No, you don't get cheapet prices. Just more for your money.

And, Bill, when you want to look your niftiest just travel along towards this Hotel Cumberland Barber Shop.

Yours for a Good Shave,

SAM.
